

The VENDEKA engineering services team delivers a full range of design, engineering and manufacturing solutions.

Our electronic engineering expertise spans many markets, including power, instrumentation, wired, wireless and optical telecommunications, industrial and consumer markets.

We maintain manufacturing equipment and tools to the highest calibration standards possible. And we follow a comprehensive preventative maintenance program.

Customers rely on our full range of design services - from software and firmware development, to electronic design and PCB layout.

We partner with our customers to deliver innovative manufacturing solutions aligned with their business objectives. We offer everything from full-service, turnkey product development and manufacturing to on-site engineering support.